

CONTROLLED BY CAMERON.

THE HARRISBURG CONVENTION NOMI-NATES THE RING TICKET.

Resolutions of Strong Sympathy with Garfield and Approval of his Administration—The Independents Rebuked—The Ticket.
Happening, Pa. Sept. 2. The De-

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—The Republican State Convention proved a very uneventful affair. The anti-Cameron element of the Convention and its friends in attendance here were so utterly surprised by attendance here were so utterly surprised by their complete defeat, foreseen last night, that they had not enough vitality to make even a forcible protest against the domination of the Ring. The events of the day proved that Quay's calculations were all well founded, and that he had the Convention fully in hand to punish his and Cameron's opponents and the bolters of last winter's Senatorial contest.

Both sides had their caucuses this morning, and the friends of Bailey, the Cameron candidate, counted 142 in their councils, and could have had at least thirty had it been required of them to show their full strength. John N. Purviance presided, and while noses were being counted Quay and Magee were busy in an alcove of the library room cutting out all the work of the Convention, designating the Chairman, the members of the committee, and the delegates who should make each motion in the transaction of the Convention's business. When a majority of the whole Convention were ascertained to be present, the Quay-Magee programme was submitted and adopted without dissent. A delegate from Schuylkill briefly told those present that a delegate from his county has joined an independent Republican organization since his election, and that he should be bounced. This proposition was unanimously concurred in.

The anti-Cameron men assembled in the Senate Chamber, and the seventy who could be counted for Davies looked lonesome and adjourned, after agreeing to support ex-Attorney-General Lear against Quay for temporary Chairman.

At noon the Convention met to register the decrees of the Quay King, as announced in the caucus. The programme was strictly adhered to, and at nods from the managers the delegates popped up and made the motions assigned to them. Quay—for years the head of the local lobby, the manager of Republican campaigns, the organizer of the Pittsburgh riot loss four-million-dollar raid on the State Treasury, and the Comptroller of the Pardon Board which set Kemble and his associates free from the peni-

Quay was nominated for temporary Chairman in a speech praising him as a "matchless organizer," by a brother of Harry Oliver, who was defeated for United States Senator last winter. Quay was elected over Laar by 162 to 83. Committees were appointed as prearranged, the Hon. C. W. Gillilan of Venango being made Chairman of Committee on Platform, Col. Geo. S. Gullups of Allegheny Chairman of Committee on Permanent Organization, and McClurg of Allegheny on Contested Seats. Gen. Harry White was made permanent Chairman, and after a characteristic speech from him the platform was adopted as reported by the committee, not, however, until a delegate from Chester had moved to not do so after the following speech:

moved to cut down the enervative declaration concerning Garfield to a simple endorsement of his Administration first, last, and all the time. This proposition after some wrangling was laid on the table. The Convention was then somewhat enlivened and a good deal bored.

by speeches nominating and seconding the nominations of the two candidates for State Treasurer, Attorney-General Palmer named Bailey, and Davies was urged in a homely and long-drawn-out harangue by his constituent, Representative London, who made considerable

EX-Senator Landon, who made some good points, and illustrated with frontier stories the dangers into which the Ring was running itself and the party by riding rough shod over the wishes of the people. He protested against a candidate whose only distinction was that he had been one of the 306 at Chicago. Although he said he supposed he and others of Davies's friends would have to vote for any candidate named by the Convention, he urged it for God's sake not to force upon the party one whose candidacy would be construed as opposition to the sick women enlisted as opposition to the sick and suffering President. Senator Lee of Vanango County, conspicuous in the Senatorial bout last winter, followed in a speech for Davies and against the sudden opposition sprung upon him. The Convention settled down to a ballot, and Bailey had 157 votes to 84 for Davies. Philadelphia, Allegheny, and the Democratic counties of the State contributed largely to Bailey's strength. Gen. S. M. Bailey of Fayette County was then declared to be the party nominee for State Treasurer.

The platform of the Convention praises the Republican party as progressive and reformatory, economical and honest; declares for protection, and eulogizes Gov. Hoyt's administration. More than half of it is devoted to ex-

That the Republican party of Pennsylvania is in the most hearty accord with the Administration of President Garfield, and, while uniting in the prayers of all good people for his speedy recovery, pledges continued leal and most active support in prompt and courageous correction of all governmental abuses. As Republicans we are in favor of any proper and well-considered reform, either in the government of the nation or in State, municipal, or county government, and we court suggestions to any or all of these ends, and only ask that in their advocacy well-established common sense shall be of President Garfield has set the right example in this direction, and while firmly adhering to the principles and better practices of the great party which called it into existence, it yet insists upon faithfulness and honesty in every branch of the pulpit service. The bullet of an assassin should not interrupt this work. It should be pursued while its author lives, and beyond his life if, through increasing misfortune, it should be taken away. That to President James A. Garfield, this tender and loving, this struggling and suffering, this pure and brave man, may become the beloved of this people, and the at-

of all peoples, we tender for ourselves and our constituents assurances of deep and heartiest sympathy, and, acutely appreciating the value of such a life to his country, we express the prayerful hope that he may soon be restored to the discharge of the important duties for which he is remarkably qualified, and from which, by

It has been disclosed that the latter resolution was inserted by Edward McPherson, and that the Cameron men at first opposed the last clause.

as an insinuation that Guiteau's act was committed on behalf of the Stalwarts. It was finally consented to by the Ring only upon a pressure for it by the rural members of the committee, who were for the strongest possible expression of sympathy with the victim.

The independents resent the action of the Convention as a rebuke to the bolters in the Senatorial contest and as an insult to the Federal Administration. The regulars ward off the latter charge by pointing to the fulsome praise of Garfield in the platform, but admit that the Convention was handled so as to punish the rebels and make boating odious, and that this year's action was only the initiatory step to an unending proscription of the kickers. The delegates scattered to their homes almost before the Convention adjourned, and the comments of the State press will have to be waited for to determine whether there will be any echoes to the mutterings of a bolt which were expressed last night by Wolfe, Wharton

Aid for Persecuted Hebrews.

Within the next three months it is expected that five hundred of the persecuted Jews of southern Russia will reach this country in search of homes and employment. They will be sent here at the expense of the "Alliance Israelite Universelle." This organization selects only such as are able to earn their own living for emigration. As those to arrive will come destitute, some provision will have to be made for their temporary requirements. A meeting was called for last evening, and about a dozen gentlemen, among whom were a number of our M. E. S.

James, Julius and M. Stern, Abraham L. Singer, J. Hamburger, C. Bernheim, Wan Vogel and Mr. de Lemaire, assembled in the rooms of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, West Forty-second street, after informally taking the matter over, decided to issue a call for a general meeting to be held in the same place some even-

The Signal Office Prediction.
Fair weather, lower barometer, easterly shifting to southerly winds, stationary or higher temperature.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

There is to be a meeting of former residents of Michigan in the law office of J. S. MacDonald, 229 Broadway.

Forester leads Earl Howard Ferron in $1,000 bail reaction to arrest of change of manufacturer by criminal negligence. The former a day had tested that Ferron is in the center of the case at the time.

SPARKS FROM THE TELEGRAPH.

Stephen K. Foster, prominent as an agitator for anti-slavery, temperance, and women's rights, died yesterday afternoon in the suburbs of Worcester, Mass. Aged 71 years.

Latest intelligence from St. Pierre does not bear out the reports by telegraph relative to a threatened outbreak of civil war. It says the affair caused no excitement in St. Pierre.

It is believed that the Republicans in San Francisco have elected all their candidates except the Tax Collector and one Supervisor. Their majorities range from 2,000 to a close margin.

100